

Angela Langa, MBA
Vice President of IT

Angi Langa joined NCCPA in May of 2019. She oversees Information Technology Services division, including Infrastructure and Corporate Security, Business Systems Analysis, Application Development, Software and Data Quality Assurance, and IT Operations. Angi brings extensive experience in the technology field, along with a passion for forming strategic partnerships and improving organizational efficiency.

Angi is originally from Springfield, Illinois, and holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Mathematics (minor in Computer Science) from Southern Illinois University, and a Master of Business Administration from the University of Georgia. Angi is certified in agile software development methodologies. She most recently served as Director of Product Development with ADP and worked closely with senior ADP leaders and team members on their global digital transformation initiative.